

Parra®
STUDIO

Cotton House

Salwar is a pajama like trousers, which is drawn in a tight manner at the waist and the ankles. The hold of Salwar is firm but its spread is loose which allows for flexibility. The women folk wear a long and loose tunic known as Kameez over the Salwars.

1001

Salwar is a pajama like trousers, which is drawn in a tight manner at the waist and the ankles. The hold of Salwar is firm but its spread is loose which allows for flexibility. The women folk wear a long and loose tunic known as Kameez over the Salwars.

1002

To complete the group, three straight meters of cloth called Dupatta is put across the shoulders in a usual manner. There is another factor that has to be mentioned. On certain occasions women wear Churidar instead of Salwar with Kameez. Both are similar, but the Churidar's tight fitting at the hips, thighs and ankles.

1003

As they say, style makes an individual and salwar kameez suits this adjective to the hilt. They make for bringing the new look and glitz to the store of ethnic fashion and latest salwar kameez / salwar suits has a few up its sleeves.

1004

Parra
STUDIO

Salwar is a pajama like trousers, which is drawn in a tight manner at the waist and the ankles. The hold of Salwar is firm but its spread is loose which allows the

1005

Parra[®]
STUDIO

Sarwar is a paloma-like tunic, which is drawn in a tight manner at the waist and the ankles. The fold of Sarwar is firm but its spread is loose which allows for flexibility. The women folk wear a long and loose tunic known as Kantha over the Sarwars.

1006

Parra[®]
STUDIO

Parra
STUDIO

1001

1002

1003

1004

1005

1006